Abstract

Over 250 years people of the African descent were enslaved in the U.S. stolen from their homes and families. The fifteenth Amendment gave the right for citizens of the U.S to vote no matter what race.

But the damage was already done and did not fix those who were affected .....

Reparations

Are actions taken to make amends, or giving satisfaction to whom were wrongfully treated or injured during the time of slavery.

- In ways such as payments.

Why is it important?

It will allow people who were wrongly evolved in slavery help get the life they never had.

Mental Health

WHY?

Why should african americans in the slave trade receive mental health as reparations

Because of the trama, of losing families and friends, being beaten, and half of the time straving from not being fed by their master affects them to grow and move on being that they can not properly let go of the past.

Why do Reparations Matter?!

- It allows the people who were wrongly evolved in slavery help get the life they never had.
- It will allow them to help their families in ways they always wanted to.
- The victims of Slavery will be able to get the health and care they never got before to be ensure that well.
- It will change lives, and fix wrong doings that been made over the past of history.
- Note that this won't make up for their suffer.
- However, it is a good place to start the apology

Who is affected by it and why is it affecting them?

- People who are affected by this are those with ancestors who were enslaved in the United States.
- They are affected by the injustices because they for one lost their loved ones that they cannot get back.
- African-Americans still deal with injustice to this day.
  - Whether it be through police brutality or anything on the long list on things they endure daily while just trying to live their lives.
- African-Americans are still plagued by the inherited inequalities in present day.

Why has it took them so long to do it?

- “We believe that it took them so long because the U.S Government have political speakers that are unauthorized to issue an apology because they are not the actual perpetrators of slavery. It also explains that they can not speak for dead people that literally might not have wanted to apologize for practicing and promoting slavery.”
- “Also they believe that descendants of slaves can not be the ones to accept the apology because these are freed people among the freest people on earth so what qualifies then to be able to accept the apology from the U.S Government”

Why did they come up with reparations as a solution?

- Nothing else can be done to make amends.
- Therefore, reparation is a good start

Why will reparations be a huge impact on people who will receive it?

- Although they can't get their time back, moving forward they can use whatever it is that contains the reparation for help in many ways
- They would be able to build a better life

Why should they consider adding more things to reparations like healthcare, school paid for, housing etc?

- Money isn't enough for “the nations biggest sin” slaves had many things taken away from them like their homes.
- Slaves weren't able to get an education.
- With reparations some other things families could get besides just money could be a one time check.
- They could receive vouchers for many things like medical/health insurance or even have school paid for them.
- Families could also have access to trust funds to help them start a business or build/ finance a home.
